Legion Paper introduces the new range of matching envelopes for Somerset Textured fine art paper

New York, NY (August 25, 2006) - Somerset Textured fine art paper is renowned for its sublime mouldmade surface and feel, which has made this paper popular with printers, designers and stationery artists. Legion is proud to announce a new range of fine art envelopes to perfectly match the sophistication of Somerset Textured art paper. The textured envelopes feature a number of stylish design elements such as the elegant elongated flap and the luscious white and softwhite tones to compliment the key characteristics of Somerset Textured. These acid-free envelopes are suitable for most forms of printing including letterpress, engraving and embossing.

"We took great pains to introduce a new line of textured envelopes that exhibit the same high-class and contemporary feel that everyone recognizes with Somerset," said Michael Ginsburg, President of Legion Paper. "Elements of sophistication and elegance are found in the details of the envelope such as the stylish European flap. Like the Somerset paper, the surface texture of the envelope is ideal for all forms of deluxe printing such as engraving and letterpress, which is ideal for announcements and invitations," added Mr. Ginsburg.

The Textured Envelopes are available in all the common sizes and the two Somerset Textured colors:
